SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 19, 1861.

INTERVIEW WITH THE POPE. The Rev. W. James, in a letter to the Christian Reformer, on his recent visit to the Continent, gives the following account of his interview with the Pope:

"Before I left Bristol, I obtained from Roman Catholic clergy man there, a letter of introduction to Monsignor Talbot, who resides at the Vatican; through him I had an audience of the Pope. I was allowed to take with me Mr. Gangooly and my other young travelling companion, and we went very quietly to the palace in the morning at eleven o'clock. There we saw Cardinals in their showy robes, the Ministers of State, and others, as they passed in and out to and from the presence of the Pontiff. An hour had elapsed before I was summoned. I had previously ascertained that, as Protestants, there would be no special mark of reverence required from us on this occasion, and we paid the same token of respect which we should have done had we attended the Court at home. We found the Pope seated at a table in the plain white ecclesiastical dress which he always wears in private, and with a calm and benignant countenance, expressive of amiability and gentleness, rather than force of character or mental vigor .-He seemed to be a man about seventy years of age, and his features have not on them sent their orders from Baltimore to fill, and act the Magazines for January. Now is the time to the traces of care and anxiety which I expected would be visible, from all he has re- buy here. cently had to do and bear. Nothing could exceed the kindness of manner with which he received me. There was not the slightest exhibition of haughtiness or coldness in word or action. He spoke naturally of what arose out of the circumstances in which we stood before him. I had been introduced as a Socinian minister from Bristol. And I ventured to say that this was a mistakethat I was not a follower of Socious, not agreeing with him in some of his religious conclusions; that I belonged to a church which refused to be called by the name of any man, however accomplished and excellent, and that I was a Unitarian Christian. Hearing this, the Pope reminded me that Socinus was an Italian, and then asked me if I knew anything of the history and writings of Ochinus, who was also an Italian, and of the Capuchin order, but renounced the doctrines of the Catholic Church, and became an Anti-Trinitarian. I replied that I was familiar with the life and the Anti-Trinitarian opinions of this singularly gifted man, and with his fame as a pulpit orator, and that he had likewise exercised his functions as a preacher in England. The Pope then turned to the Brahmin, and was informed that he was soon going to Calcutta as a Christian misssionary to his native Hindoos, having renounced Heathenism and embraced Unitarian views of the gospel .--He did not forget the English youth who 1860, are all made out, and will be rendered to was with me, and was told that he was of morrow, at the residence or place of business of the Independent denomination. This led all our friends, or through the post office. These him to make some remarks on the diversity of thought and speculation which prevailed in the world on the subject of religion - | Our friends will render us an especial favor by And, turning to me, he remarked, "My prayer is, that, amid the divisions and con- us. troversies of Christendom, all may be brought to know the truth and to do it." Of course, 7170 THE PUBLIC .- Dr. P. A. COBB has I felt that 'the truth,' as he understood it, must be the system of which he is the of Alexandria, his sole Agents for the town and head amd representative. But his words brought to my mind the prayer of Jesus, 'Sanctify them by Thy truth; for Thy word is truth;' and I said to the Pope that his petition was mine also, and that it was one in which all good Christians most cordially

When the United States army started for Utah there was a scarcity of transportation, or, in other words, there were too few baggage wagons. Now, every soldier knows how like the apple of one's eye are these same baggage wagons, drawn as they are by six mules, on the long marches across the plains. A colonel of dragoons, who had command of one of the columns, restricted the officers very much in their allowance of baggage,

One morning the Colonel met one of his captains (a dragoon, of course,) when he burst out as follows: "Captain, do you know what these artil lery officers want to take across the plains?" "No, colonel, I do not, said the captain, with an enquiring look. "Well," said he, "if you'll believe me, there's one of 'em wants to take across a box of books." "Books!" exclaimed the captain, "what next, I wonder! Now, colonel, I have but little to take across myself-nothing, in fact, but a barrel of whiskey."

"Of course, captain, of course; anything in reason, anything in reason; but the idea of earrying a parcel of books across that stretch is a little more than I can stand."
